

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

0015 [Amended] A series of five unique and specific methods of use, methods of play or scoring to be used with a projectile tossing game apparatus. These methods are for use by one or more players in using a projectile tossing apparatus which in the playing mode consists of a pair of identical, modular target assemblies deployed in spaced apart relationship to present a pair of slightly inclined, apertured targets towards which sack-type playing pieces are thrown to generate points in accordance with these rules/methods. Each target apparatus comprises a resilient, generally rectangular plastic playing board which includes a round target aperture penetrable by said sack-type playing piece projectiles. The primary intention of the present invention is to create improved methods of play/ use for projectile tossing game apparatuses, and to establish and standardize these rules/methods of play along with their unique titles; Cincinnati, East-Side, West-Side, Old-School, and Beach Style.